WHO’S ON BOARD

Contact any of the following Board Directors with your comments and ideas to make the Museum even better!

President: Ron Roberts
RonR0923@gmail.com

Vice President: Mark T. Muller
mullerm1@msn.com

Recording Secretary: Alysa Edwards
AlysaEdwards@gmail.com

Treasurer: Evelyn Holbrook eholbrook@ccusd93.org

Board: Page Coniglio
desertbeginnings2013@gmail.com
Hilary Cummins
hilarywilliams@gmail.com
Bill Kosanke
ckosanke@gmail.com
Kraig Nelson
knelson919@aol.com
Pamela Patton
pamelapatton@icloud.com
Rita Treat
rktreat@gmail.com
Anne Wallace
anne.wallace3@gte.net

Make History! Join the Cave Creek Museum

All memberships include a ten percent discount in the Museum Store, free entry to the Museum with membership card, and monthly newsletters. For membership, volunteer opportunities or other Museum information, call 480-488-2764 or Email: info@cavecreekmuseum.com

Visit the Museum Website at: www.cavecreekmuseum.org

May 2018 – May 30, 2018
Wednesday – Sunday
1:00 to 4:30 p.m.
Open Fridays 10:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
Closed Holidays
480 – 488 – 2764

ADMISSION
Adults $5
Seniors $3
Students $2
Children under 12 Free
Donations gratefully accepted

Non Profit Org.
U.S. Postage
PAID
Cave Creek, AZ 85331
Permit No. 7

Cave Creek Museum, Inc.
6140 E Skyline Drive
PO Box 1, Cave Creek, AZ 85327

Cave Creek Museum Nuggets December 2017

LUCY DICKENS FEATURED ARTIST

Enjoy works by talented Carefree painter Lucy Dickens in the Ansbaugh Auditorium.

AWARD WINNING ARIZONA ARTIST, Lucy Dickens has created a unique, story-like approach to landscape painting that leads one down a compelling path or explores the details of a cactus flower. Inspired by the Carefree area that she calls home, Lucy says, “There are few places on Earth where you can enjoy the morning on a lake cut by glaciers and rising red rocks, have lunch watching a gentle snowfall in a quiet forest, then end the day watching a sunset standing on the rim of the largest canyon in the world! Arizona is an artist’s paradise and as an artist, I am dedicated to capturing this God given beauty on canvas.”

Art came with her genes. Her mother was a watercolorist and her father a photographer. Still, Lucy did not start out to be an oil painter. She always enjoyed art, but soon after marrying her high school sweetheart Richard, she gave birth to her children at the same time the couple “birted” a demolition business.

With little ones, work, and doing their company’s accounting at night, Lucy’s life was busy with the practical needs of life. “Before long we grew to be the largest demolition company in the state. By then I was the Controller full time.”

After moving into a new home, Lucy felt the urge to paint a mural. Richard brought her a scrap piece of drywall to give it a try. To her delight, Lucy re-discovered the joy of painting. As she painted, Lucy says, “My heart opened more and more and... I began to feel such an excitement.”

Richard, always supportive, surprised her with a real artist acrylic paint set and easel. She was on her way. “From the first time I put brush to canvas I knew this was what I was supposed to be doing... A deep passion began to well up inside me and filled me with a sense of purpose.”

(Continued on page 3)

Join in for a lecture and book signing by Robert A. Kittle, author of Franciscan Frontiersman. The book depicts how three adventurers charted the West. Learn about their accomplishments, encounters, and survival in the American Southwest.

From the very discovery of how to generate electricity it was understood that insulators were necessary to prevent “shorting out” and keeping the flow of electricity on its intended path. The material has improved dramatically yet the basic design has changed little over the years.

In the central display case of the Pioneer Wing, examine examples of the insulators used in the early years of electric distribution in Arizona. These important safety elements hold not only their practical attributes but an artistic beauty in shape, textures and colors, contrasted with the rustic wood pole mounts.

D E C E M B E R 2 0 1 7

Sunday, 3: Family Fun Holiday Magic
1:30 to 4:00 p.m.
Kick off the holiday season with a cowboy-style Christmas!
Enjoy an afternoon of rootin’ tootin’ holiday fun for the whole family. Make holiday crafts and decorate cookies.
Saturday, 9: Stamp Mill Operational—1:30 p.m.
Followed by Cave Creek Museum presents: Adult Discovery Series—2:00 to 3:30 p.m.
Join us for a lecture and book signing by Robert A. Kittle, author of Franciscan Frontiersman. The book depicts how three adventurers charted the West. Learn about their accomplishments, encounters, and survival in the American Southwest.

Kanrie Porter Bruce, Executive Director; Karen Friend, Administrative Support Staff.

The Mission of the Cave Creek Museum is to preserve the artifacts of the prehistory, history, culture and legacy of the Cave Creek/Carefree foothills area through education, research, and interpretive exhibits.
Christmas in the early years of the 20th century, was a much simpler and more community-oriented celebration than current day festivities.

We don't have any information on how townsfolk celebrated in December of 1912, but festivities documented elsewhere suggest Cave Creek would have celebrated similarly.

The family would have risen early—not with a gift-driven melee by a Christmas tree, but with chores that did not recognize the calendar. After the daily responsibilities were taken care of, THEN the children could investigate what Santa had brought them. Everyone would have brought a dish to share.

According to Wernecke, “The meal consisted of meats and potatoes and beans; bake goods of every variety and a caldron of oil was set above a fire to fresh-fry dough that were drizzled with honey or sprinkled with sugar. There were tubs of coffee and cases of breads and buns. Family and friends would gather to eat at numerous campfires.”

Because frontier communities were also cultural mixed bags; there probably would have been dishes inspired by the Hispanic community, such as beans and rice and tamales. Favored fare from Slavic countries and Germany and Poland might also have been included. Wernecke reports that after: “… the bounteous meal, a siesta under the trees is in order. As dusk all gather in the church [school] for the program — songs, music, recitations, even the “Hallelujah Chorus.” After the program, Santa comes through with sweets for the children. Another joyful Christmas Day has come and gone.”

—Darlene Southern

Memorial

Longtime member Ed Myers passed away September 22. Former volunteer and member Arline Fraser passed away October 7. Member Robyn Davidson on October 26. Veterinarian Brent Baker passed away November 1.

Our condolences to the families of these Museum friends.
YESTERYEAR

Please consider the Cave Creek Museum when creating memorial funds for loved ones and in your estate planning.

Cave Creek Museum
One month free service!
Refer a neighbor and receive
Blazing Fast Internet Service
Desert iNET

Find all new jewelry, books and gift ideas.

Thanks to All Our Business Members

YESTERYEAR

C A V E C R E E K M U S E U M N U G G E T S

(Carol Dickens continued from page 1)

Lucy took classes and workshops, visited museums and studied works by other artists. The more Lucy painted, the more she discovered a talent for seeing, capturing, and painting moments that stir one’s emotions. Lucy describes her style as an expressive or painterly realism.

“The interplay of light and shadow draw me deeply into a scene,” she explains of her process. Lucy employs her spiritual love of nature to evoke feelings of peace in her artwork. She wants to capture these “God moments” and share them with the world, to bring hope and light to those that view her paintings, to inspire, causing them to pause and see the beauty around them.

“I’ve been blessed with a gift and given this gift to others. It’s a gift that needs to be shared. With purchasing a painting, you in essence are purchasing a moment of time.”

Thank you for considering the Cave Creek Museum when creating memorial funds for loved ones and in your estate planning. It is our honor to be a part of your family’s legacy.

The Museum Ghost is speaks from beyond...

What a great way to launch the holidays! Museum programs and shopping the Museum Store and mixing with Christmas Past.

Visit our ghost on twitter: twitter.com/cavemuseumghost

YESTERYEAR

-Bev’s Bits-
CHRISTMAS PAST

I WENT TO MY FIRST MOTHER’S CLUB meeting in September 1961, and was given the job of running the Halloween Party, the Christmas Party, and the Easter Egg Hunt.

With another December upon us, the old Cave Creek Christmas Past comes to mind. The Mother’s Club had a Santa Claus suit that my late husband Bill Metcalfe readily agreed to put it on. Two things pertaining to costumes and Bill: 1. Wild horses could not get Bill away from wearing a costume, and 2. our two little children Rusty and Randi Ann never believed in Santa Claus because they helped him get dressed in his outfit every year for the Christmas Party.

The Mother’s Club bought a present for every child in our community from the fifth grade on down to the tiniest baby. The first year I did it all by myself. It was a big job, but I had fun with it. You have to understand there were only 500 people in our entire school district, at the time, so it was not an impossible task. When I married Bill, there were only 66 kids in school, and very few pre-schoolers.

Also in 1961, Bill brought me to Beverly Thelanders’ house when she started the choir practice for the Christmas Pageant. I have been singing since I was about three years old, and so this was right up my alley. I made a lot of friends over the next few weeks. Only one is still alive, Vera Roberts Metcalfe.

I have never heard 0 Holy Night as beautifully sung before or since as when it was performed by seventeen year old Johnny Breitner. All of the songs we did that night drifted out over the desert air into the natural amphitheatre of Black Mountain to where people were sitting.

The Pageant was started in 1952 by Jean Hackler and her eight 4H girls as a Christmas Present to the whole community. It was meant to be a one time thing, but is still being presented over a half a century later. Dr. Hudson, owner of one of the ranches north of Cave Creek, offered the grounds on the north side of Black Mountain for the performance. These days the Pageant is held at Spur Cross.

— Beverly Metcalfe Brooks

“IT’S those moments of beauty that cause me to feel, to reflect, and to give thanks; a scene that has a power, placidity and intensity that draws me in. It’s these fleeting illustrations that I strive to capture. There is a story in these segments of time, and therefore, a story in all my paintings. I am a Fine Art Storyteller.”

Each of Lucy’s paintings is a window created to take a journey and find serenity. Peer into her paintings, giclees and signed prints on display in the Amsbaugh Auditorium. All are available for purchase.

Gogel, our Museum president’s mother, my dearest, oldest friend. That pageant was FABULOUS. Beverly asked Vera to sing Ava Maria in Spanish, as Vera had such a beautiful voice. At first, she said no as her husband had died just a few months prior, but she finally said yes, and did a magnificent job! The night was so clear and the stars were so bright, it was nothing like I had ever experienced before, coming from Illinois. I had said that it did not feel like Christmas without snow, but Mary Bonnell put me straight right away, saying that this weather was more like the desert where Christ Jesus was born.

Jason & Sarah Hope
Wedding Officials
Office: 480.217.8389
info@themissionchapel.com

The Mission Chapel
Elopement Wedding Chapel

Old Historic Church in Cave Creek, Arizona
6140 E. Skyline Drive, Cave Creek, Arizona

Ask us about our Hot Air Balloon Package

Est. 2014
The Mission Chapel
Elopement Wedding Chapel

Tatum & Dynamite at Tatum Ranch
Cave Creek Resident
480-585-5115
www.jackhallam.com
Tatum & Dynamite at Tatum Ranch

Jack Hallam
Cave Creek Resident
480-585-5115
www.jackhallam.com
Tatum & Dynamite at Tatum Ranch

Simple Email Strategies
Jen Miles
623-698-2169
Jen@SimpleEmailStrategies.com
SimpleEmailStrategies.com
Social Media and Email Marketing Made SIMPLE

Shop Your Museum Store!
Find all new jewelry, books and gift ideas.

Thank you for the love you have shown to the Cave Creek Museum this year. We are truly grateful for your support.

D E C M B E R  2 0 1 7
Becoming Arizona

TERRITORIAL HISTORY is an important part of what’s exhibited and discussed at the Cave Creek Museum. Let’s start with a short quiz, one question. When did the future state of Arizona achieve territorial status? Select one answer: a) 2/14/1862 b) 2/24/1863 c) 7/9/1868 d) all the above. Let’s examine each date starting with the earliest. First, some historical background.

The United States battled Mexico in a war that started in 1846 and ended on February 2, 1848 with the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo. The U.S., under President James K. Polk (eleventh president), prevailed. The Mexican-American War resulted in America acquiring nearly all the land now recognized as New Mexico, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, California, Texas, and western Colorado.

U.S. land acquisition from Mexico didn’t end in 1848. The next acquisition was a real estate deal, not a war. In 1853 President Franklin Pierce (fourteenth president) sent diplomat James Gadsden to negotiate with Mexico’s President Antonio de Santa Ana for land that would provide a route for a southern railroad. The U.S. eventually agreed to pay Mexico $10 million for 29,670 square miles of land which became part of today’s Arizona and a small allocation to today’s New Mexico. All parties signed the agreement by June 8, 1854 ratifying the Gadsden Purchase.

After the Gadsden Purchase, the land for America’s future 48 contiguous states was in place. On September 9, 1850, the territory of New Mexico was created, which included most of the land we recognize today as New Mexico and Arizona—today’s fifth and sixth largest states respectively. (If both were joined today, the combined land would cover over 79,000 square miles, larger than California.)

The capital of the 1850 territory was Santa Fe. Because of legislation and enforcing law over such a huge area (exacerbated by marauding Apaches), the government in Santa Fe began thinking of territorial division; seminal “Arizona” discussions were born. In April 12, 1861, the Civil War started. The Confederacy wanted the southern portion of the New Mexico territory to gain access to California, lucrative mines, and the opportunity for a Confederate southern railroad. Ultimately, the Southern Pacific Railroad was built in the early 1880s. The Confederate States of America wanted a slave state. During secession conventions in March 1861, delegates voted to create the Confederate Territory of Arizona. This territory consisted of the southern half of today’s New Mexico and Arizona south of the 34th parallel. This was the first territorial entity called Arizona! The capital was Mesilla (now in New Mexico). On February 14, 1862, Confederate President Jefferson Davis officially approved the new territory. Although the Confederates were ousted from the region in March 1862 after the Battle of Glorieta Pass (about 15 miles southeast of Santa Fe), Confederates recognized the area as their territory until the end of the Civil War. At that point the capital was moved to El Paso, Texas, a slave state.

Ohio Congressman, James Ashley, introduced the Arizona Organic Act to Congress in 1862. The purpose was to create a Union Arizona Territory. State historian Marshall Trimble says Mr. Ashley found strong opposition in both Houses because there were fewer than 2,500 Anglos living in the area with boundaries we recognize today, a north/south division with New Mexico at the 109th meridian. Mr. Ashley felt, and sold the idea, mineral wealth in Arizona would help the Union War effort (it didn’t hurt that two of the largest mines in Arizona were charted in Ohio). On February 24, 1863, President Lincoln signed the Organic Act and Arizona became a territory. Fort Whipple was the first territorial capital and shortly, Prescott was established and became capital.

It looks like the correct answer for today’s quiz is (d) all the above.

As Museum docents we are able and happy to answer difficult questions. Because of this we have received effusive praise over the years, it’s almost embarrassing. I guess that’s why, as a group of proud docents, we are considered to be extremely “well-red.”

Becoming Arizona

Docent’s Corner

16-17 Volunteers of the Year: Nancy Zeno and Sue Mueller for their work in the Archaeology Wing.

Thanks to Our Business Partners

APS — Arizona Public Service
Area Disposal, 480-515-6300
Arizona Archaeology Society
Carefree/Cave Creek Chamber Commerce, 480-488-3181
Carefree Property Services, 480-575-6400
Cave Creek Merchants and Events Association
City Sun Times
Cowboy Balladeer Mike Ewing, 602-330-3675
Desert Awareness Committee
Dessert INET 480-445-9151
Desert Rat Forge, 602-509-1543
Desert Foothills Land Trust, 480-488-6131
Desert Foothills Library, 480-488-2286
Don Fredericks Building, 480-488-2437
Eldred Fence Co.
Foothills Focus
Frontier Town
Harold’s Cave Creek Corral
Helping Hands Graphic Design Marketing
Images Magazine
Jack Hallam at State Farm Insurance, 480-585-5115
Jen Miles, Simple Email Strategies, 623-699-2169

Miners Dinner 2012

Left: New Executive Director Karmi Porter Brucesuites Wild West Days in the event’s November parade.
Right: Diane Flach and Geni Pass cheer a fun evening under the stars.

Below: Pam DiPietro, Mary Garavann, Janet Mueller and Bev Brooks share stories from “the early days.”

A balmy evening made for a relaxing evening of wonderful food, melodeous music by Mike Easty demonstrations and good friends.

On November 5, friends gathered to wish Evelyn Johnson well on her retirement as Museum Executive Director (above with husband Don).

Below: Carol Caldwell (left) and Gena 7 (right) with new adventures to Evelyn Johnson and Museum dog Angle as they both explore new activities.

Becoming Arizona

Docent’s Corner

16-17 Volunteers of the Year: Nancy Zeno and Sue Mueller for their work in the Archaeology Wing.

Thanks to Our Business Partners

APS — Arizona Public Service
Area Disposal, 480-515-6300
Arizona Archaeology Society
Carefree/Cave Creek Chamber Commerce, 480-488-3181
Carefree Property Services, 480-575-6400
Cave Creek Merchants and Events Association
City Sun Times
Cowboy Balladeer Mike Ewing, 602-330-3675
Desert Awareness Committee
Dessert INET 480-445-9151
Desert Rat Forge, 602-509-1543
Desert Foothills Land Trust, 480-488-6131
Desert Foothills Library, 480-488-2286
Don Fredericks Building, 480-488-2437
Eldred Fence Co.
Foothills Focus
Frontier Town
Harold’s Cave Creek Corral
Helping Hands Graphic Design Marketing
Images Magazine
Jack Hallam at State Farm Insurance, 480-585-5115
Jen Miles, Simple Email Strategies, 623-699-2169

Miners Dinner 2012

Left: New Executive Director Karmi Porter Brucesuites Wild West Days in the event’s November parade.
Right: Diane Flach and Geni Pass cheer a fun evening under the stars.

Below: Pam DiPietro, Mary Garavann, Janet Mueller and Bev Brooks share stories from “the early days.”

A balmy evening made for a relaxing evening of wonderful food, melodeous music by Mike Easty demonstrations and good friends.

On November 5, friends gathered to wish Evelyn Johnson well on her retirement as Museum Executive Director (above with husband Don).

Below: Carol Caldwell (left) and Gena 7 (right) with new adventures to Evelyn Johnson and Museum dog Angle as they both explore new activities.

Becoming Arizona

Docent’s Corner

16-17 Volunteers of the Year: Nancy Zeno and Sue Mueller for their work in the Archaeology Wing.

Thanks to Our Business Partners

APS — Arizona Public Service
Area Disposal, 480-515-6300
Arizona Archaeology Society
Carefree/Cave Creek Chamber Commerce, 480-488-3181
Carefree Property Services, 480-575-6400
Cave Creek Merchants and Events Association
City Sun Times
Cowboy Balladeer Mike Ewing, 602-330-3675
Desert Awareness Committee
Dessert INET 480-445-9151
Desert Rat Forge, 602-509-1543
Desert Foothills Land Trust, 480-488-6131
Desert Foothills Library, 480-488-2286
Don Fredericks Building, 480-488-2437
Eldred Fence Co.
Foothills Focus
Frontier Town
Harold’s Cave Creek Corral
Helping Hands Graphic Design Marketing
Images Magazine
Jack Hallam at State Farm Insurance, 480-585-5115
Jen Miles, Simple Email Strategies, 623-699-2169

Miners Dinner 2012

Left: New Executive Director Karmi Porter Brucesuites Wild West Days in the event’s November parade.
Right: Diane Flach and Geni Pass cheer a fun evening under the stars.

Below: Pam DiPietro, Mary Garavann, Janet Mueller and Bev Brooks share stories from “the early days.”

A balmy evening made for a relaxing evening of wonderful food, melodeous music by Mike Easty demonstrations and good friends.

On November 5, friends gathered to wish Evelyn Johnson well on her retirement as Museum Executive Director (above with husband Don).

Below: Carol Caldwell (left) and Gena 7 (right) with new adventures to Evelyn Johnson and Museum dog Angle as they both explore new activities.